

Eight more sleeps and centre opens

Source: Morning Bulletin Rockhampton

Date: 06 August 2009

EIGHT days.

That's how long until you can browse the fashion precinct or grab a coffee from Gayle and Kevin McLean in the newly developed Stockland Rockhampton shopping centre.

The centre will finally open its doors on August 13 at gam with a fanfare of activities and celebrations.

Gayle and Kevin moved to Rockhampton from the Gold Coast over a year ago to be the franchisees of Zarraffa's Coffee, a new coffee shop in the centre which will be run by the McLean family.

Their daughter Kelly and her boyfriend Samuel Flett, their son Greg and his girlfriend Rachelle Forse will work in the store along with three other local employees.

Kevin said they had owned various businesses, including a thoroughbred breeding property in the Hunter Valley in NSW, and saw the relocation as a fantastic business opportunity.

"There are a lot of shops that haven't had a presence in town like Zarraffa's Coffee," he said.

The new Zarraffa's Coffee store will be located adjacent to Coles and Kmart in stage 1 of the new development.